

Social investigation board

Have you ever seen a criminal story? If a crime is investigated, the police gathers all the information they have about the crime scene. They take pictures of evidence, pin the information on a board and build connections. This helps to take everything into consideration!

Step 1

Maybe you already have a pinboard in your room. If not, build one out of paper and pin it to a free wall.

Step 2

Think of a challenge or a problem you noticed in your environment and you want to find a solution for.

Step 3

Who is affected by the problem? Make notes, draw or take pictures of the affected people! Think about what they want and need.

Take a closer look at the problem and make notes of all aspects you can think of. Take pictures, draw, write .. And pin it on your board!

Step 4

If possible, interview the affected people. Specify the aspects – you can write your new insights in speechbubbles.

Step 5

Connect the evidence with strings. How are they connected? Does one aspect affect another?

Can you think of a solution yet?

Step 6
